

No Things

CD Single 1. Coward 2. Trees

Blast First [petite] (catalogue number PTYT 03)

No Things are:

Pat Noecker (bass/vocals)

Ron Albertson (drums)

Christian Dautresme (vocals/guitar).

Noecker & Albertson may be familiar names to some of you as the powerhouse Nebraskan rythmn section of the original line-up of the band "Liars" (They Threw Us All in a Trench..." album and "Fins to Make Us..." e.p released on Blast First/Mute). Dautresme, a Paris born American, has along history of bands, most recently (2003) he toured as part of "HiM" (Fat Cat groovers, not BMG mega rockers, that is)

This single is the first two blasts from this monstrous sounding Brooklyn based trio.

Dark, dense & intense, with a sound that evokes the musculature of the Mother Alien.

"Coward" is a two minutes & fifty-seven second exorcism of (self?) loathing, lust & crazed wolfishness. "Trees" (3:15) is wild late night ride through strange countryside. Elavatory alcohol effects are wearing off & petrol is running low, there's no sign of habitation & a growing sense of dread. An audio equivalent to Czech Jan Swankmajer's animated short films

No Things have played to date, four shows in their New York environs, and the word is they take off from where they left off with their part in Liars formidable live reputation... then turn it UP.

Driven more this time by a tribal tom-tom beat than Liars "disco" hi hats, it is still primal body music.

Noecker says "It's really great to be out playing again,... the road tests at home have gone great & we've had a bunch of folk from England, who knew us from the old band, been asking what we've been up to... London is kinda where we made our rep, so we are looking forward to see what happens this time around. Don't come expecting old Liars numbers tho'... this trio is strictly forward looking and we've got waaay too much happening here to want to be looking back".
